Old German Handwriting: Sütterlin Alphabet

Every letter of the Sütterlin script, with today's letter below. Free to print and share.

Capital letters

Lowercase letters

Easily confused

e and n are both two short strokes; e is smaller and narrower.

h loops down below the line; f reaches above and below it.

u has a small curve above the letter. Without it, read n.

A double stroke at the end of a line is the old hyphen.

Example

“Liebe Mutter!” (Dear Mother!)

Have a whole letter read and translated into English: allcleardocs.com/old-german-handwriting – upload a photo, first page free.

Font: Greifswalder Deutsche Schrift by Peter Wiegel, SIL Open Font License 1.1. You may print and share this chart freely. · allcleardocs.com/old-german-handwriting